No worries, I think Rusty ran into Dante in fri and got the update, so he must have decided to reach out.

Thanks. It seems like BLM may own 35% of the OU8 portion, which is the costly portion. We have been meeting with them but I think we assumed they wouldn't be liable because of some old mining law. But they may have to come up with funds if it is a fund-lead site. Can they challenge a listing once its proposed if we haven't consulted with them sufficiently? Or if they just don't want us to list?

Hi Rusty!

I was not aware that part of Anaconda fell on BLM land. We would rely on the Regions to do that outreach, depending on the level of interest/involvement of the other Federal Agency, HQ OSRTI and FFRO can assist.

I am copying Eugenia and Sharron and Terry also

Hi Jennifer:

I got asked today if we had done any consultation with BLM regarding the potential proposed listing of Anaconda with BLM, since they are a landowner for within the proposed site boundary. While not a PRP, I understand that they may still need to come up with funds as part of a fund-lead response. We have met with their management, and their staff have participated in technical meetings regarding the groundwater plume, but I wanted to know if there was a requirement for a more formal consultation?
